

I like it here quite as well as at first if not better. Would you like to know how I spend the time I am sure you would so I'll tell you. But as soon as it is light wakes me up to go and practice and by the way sometimes I think I don't care, I would rather lie in bed than to be the best musician in the world. But this feeling does not last very long nor come very often as I am generally up within five minutes after being awakened. After a hasty toilet I go down stairs and to the music room and after practice three quarters of an hour before the bell rings for rising, and after that ring I am sure of an hour practice before another bell for breakfast which is at seven after breakfast I come up stairs to my room which I except then look over my German work. The bell rings for eight when we begin in that our recitation continues until the bell rings for walking which is a quarter before nine when every young lady in the building must be in the chapel and after a hasty roll call we go out in to the street and parade ourselves before the inhabitants of G.

we walk for a quarter of an hour when we again are summoned to the chapel with a bell. Then after another roll call and reading of a chapter in the Bible we are led by the young ladies, prayers by one of the teachers and after a short lecture we are dismissed to our rooms, and from then until noon no conversation is allowed - I am alone in my room all this time with but no desire to speak & study and make my exercise of - during they first two days I take my walking band sleep that night the bed rings - we have very good sleep always and I am always real strong; after supper I look over my trunk and at my needle for that there of have two divisions to study walking before reading in that, we have to keep about four pages only but we must have every word of the in order to get a perfect walk; after this repeating each chapter are over for the present about we go to the chapel again to give our deportment for the day and if you deserve "correct" and are marked with pen and his type with leg at five and talking and saying looking over the cards day labors and talking with Anne or any one else After my game in the afternoon I and my other young girls clean off the tables and bring the dishes back after being washed and set them away which can occupy an hour - then we go to the music room and practice capital games, when the bell rings we go to the gymnasium and play games for half an hour, then after reading and writing we go to the ball room and play games for half an hour - then we go to the ball room and play games for half an hour.
