Emma:

How else was there room, to put my heart at rest so quickly. Is it too soon to tell you 20. my reply to your sweet letter that came on Wednesday last? Answer your query as you wish. I must persist in gratifying myself, by so doing, hoping you will often be inclined to indulge me with speedy responses to my miserable missives. I feel it a great indulgence, what Emma should ever do, it seems more inexplicable to me, that Emma should love me at all, upon one short week's acquaintance; that so short a visit
