Theodore Roosevelt

Dear Mr. [?]

I have just received your letter and was glad to hear from you once again. The weather here is so bad now that I am not out much and I am a little better than I was some time back. But I will be glad to see you when you can. I will be in [?] in [?].

I am sure that you will find me a very warm and hearty welcome. I am sure that you will find me a very warm and hearty welcome. I am sure that you will find me a very warm and hearty welcome. I am sure that you will find me a very warm and hearty welcome. I am sure that you will find me a very warm and hearty welcome. I am sure that you will find me a very warm and hearty welcome.

March 2nd 1862.

Well Love, it is Sunday morning, and I have just written you a similar account from just three weeks since your last letter. I hope you have not been written. There surely is some in your vision - excuse for your not writing and Angie will be here to spend the spring I would like to know what it is. vacation with me in three weeks. I guess you are determined never will have a vacation at the same. Let me see a few scratches of your time for and I am not sorry for again, but do be good and send I am getting quite weary. If I stay "Emma" to me if nothing more another letter here it is proposed. You see I am determined to be that during the summer vacation faithful if you are not, but I'll Ellen, Albert and I spend a week only send one sheet. If you are or more in journeying, Faithless. Minishing me for any misdemeanor post where Mr G's people have friends do let me make you understand Rochester, Albion and The Falls. Don't that I am punished quite sufficient you think it will be nice for us - to, and am very penitent - I don't know yet whether I shall. I had a letter from Angie last night - main or not. in which she tells me they have It has been so stormy for the past all <sup>been</sup> exposed to the small portion of week that the roads are almost vile, and have been in a dreadful impassible for drifts - and the mails scarce there, but are recovering some have been stopped, but I think that what now. One person had died and neither drifts or mail robbers have others came near death. Another been the occasion of my last heavy you you. Something. I dont imagine what you intended you, but I hope that another week will pass my heart from this trouble and I thought not Sunday, but certainly have I waited. But what I dont need, for I know there has been some reason. Ellen says you are coming here, but I dont think so. If you are willing to let me know (anything I will be sure I am suspicious I have such a severe pain just over my heart that I can scarcely sit still and must rest all day or I cannot go about it is a real pain So write to me if you can possibly or let someone if you cannot

Yours truly
Emma
