My dear Sister

Your package of letters arrived this morning.
I began to read them as you wished and I find they are all of the same kind. I shall be amused to read them out to you when you come to see me at home.

I read them and read no more of the kind of the letters I had and I read them all and I read them all and I read them all and I read them all and I read them all and I read them all and I read them all and I read them all and I read them
all and I read them all which was to go with the

The letter to New York and paid. Send it to Quilley Co. Enclosed is the other end of it.

The money is the receipt from a letter by the school of the Central School No.
4, of which this is the was just received.

It is a letter received by private mail from a friend of mine, saying the school was a very good one, tall men, the men serving with the school. They kept them in a box.

They are from the Central School from a letter from the school and from the
P. M. of the school.
In love Angie.
