March 10, 1879

My dear wife: It has been a day of interminable kindness and I have been nagging about on a dozen matters until I am all worn out.
I must go and sleep a hour or two and then go to work. I have to write a card for Col. Walter Clarke who wants a fellow given $100, for which he is to give me $50 in the morning. So I cannot write only to say that I am not read" any more. and you must not be troubled by my nervous headache. I was just all broken down and discouraged. Oh how I hoped to be with you to stay. If half a County there as here, it would have

Dear Howard. God bless you Besting. Kiss the pet for me from ever
