

Wayville, Feb. 23^d. 1884.

My Dear Judge:

I have, "after many days," found time to make the statements of our affairs which I promised you I would do.

I hand you herewith, a detailed statement of the a/c together with an itemized statement of your personal account and a postal note to balance.

I did not sell as many books for you as I had hoped I might, but did the best I could. The general trade for the season has been dull.

Waiting your commands as to the disposition of the Magazines and books on hand and wishing you abundant success,

I am, your friend

W. S. Gleason.

The Honorable A. W. Durgess,
23. Park Row, New York.
