To the Editor of The Continent.

My dear Sir: I am in receipt of your cheque for $15.00 for my story.

But I think you have made a mistake in paying me only this amount. In your receipt (which I still retain) you name the sum as $200 (two hundred dollars). The price asked for the story. I think you will therefore agree with me that you will owe me $50. I will send ~~you~~ <sup>the</sup> receipt signed as soon as you correct the error. (underhand) perfectly that it is merely an oversight, and that you will ask oversight. Sincerely, Edgar Faurett.
