Ex-Senator Lyman Trumbull writes:—"The advance sheets of Frémont's Memoirs, with their beautiful maps and illustrations you were kind enough to send me, are full of interest to all who would know and understand the career of a remarkable man, and the stirring events with which he was connected, covering nearly half a century of the most interesting period in our country's history. Gen. Frémont was a pioneer in discovering a pathway across the continent, in the conquest of the Pacific coast, in the establishment of free institutions there, and in proclaiming freedom to the slave. The life of such a man must always command the respect and admiration of mankind."
Yours very truly,
LYMAN TRUMBULL.

L. J. Gage, Vice-President First National Bank of Chicago, and President of the Bankers' Association of the U. S., writes:—"I have to thank you very much for the advance sheets of the illustrations which will ornament the forthcoming Memoirs of Gen. John C. Frémont. His pioneer work in the Great West now set forth and illustrated by him, will be a welcome addition to our present knowledge of the early days when the West was a wilderness, while his active participation in the stirring events connected with its wonderful development, will make his Memoirs a graphic picture of our national growth and progress."
Very truly,
L. J. GAGE.

Gen. John C. Black, Commissioner of Pensions, Washington, D. C., writes:—"I am pleased to know that you are about to issue the life of Gen. John C. Frémont. His popular title, the Pathfinder, expresses one of the great elements in his character, and as a pathfinder in geographical explorations, in extending the borders of the republic, in procuring the way for the pioneer, in pointing out the course to be taken by the politicians, he will stand renowned in American History. * * * I found the feelings and memories of my youth reviewing and surging up within me as I looked upon his unbending form, his noble head and manly face. * * * When the fitful span of the existence of any of our actions are over, we cherish the things of them that are good, and true and ennobling, and draw the veil of forgetfulness about their misfortunes. * * *"
Believe me, very truly yours,
JOHN C. BLACK.
