Dear Sir:

I am afraid I will make you angry, but I fear my letters did not reach you, otherwise I would have an answer of some kind.

If you can't pay me the small amount please say so & I will not bother you any more. If you can, be assured I will greatly appreciate your kindness. I am really in great need of the money, my wife is sick in bed & a baby to care for - you know what expense this involves.

Please do your best, & let somebody else wait, if possible, I assume you, you will do a good work by helping me.

Very truly yours

Geo. W. Neal
