My dear Mrs. Tourgee:-

Do not think I have forgotten you. I return herewith the clippings which are very annoying, of course. I trust, however, that time will mend all. You could maintain an action for libel against some of these papers, of course, but you might have to go from your own state to do so, and the publicity of the libel suit might be more annoying than the publications. From experience, I know how keenly we feel such newspaper thrusts, but I also know from experience how little they affect us in the estimation of our friends, or the public, in the end, and how quick they are forgotten.

I have simply time to add my good wishes, and subscribe myself,

Sincerely your friend,

To

Mrs. E. K. Tourgee,

Mayville, N. Y.
