Counselor at Law,

Fleming v. Tourgee.

Dec. 6th 1890.

Hon. A. W. Tourgee .

Dear Sir.

My clients are urging that the examination in this case be closed up, and it is certainly time that it was terminated; now before taking any further action in court I will give you the opportunity of appearing before the referee who has commenced the examination, at my office on Tuesday Dec. 16th, 1890 at eleven o'clock A.M., at that time I will waive the ~~the~~ default, and I presume I can close the examination of yourself on that day; if that day should not be convenient to you, please fix any other day within two weeks from this date and I will try and accommodate you, but let me know soon the day, or at least a few days before the day you decide upon so that I may let the referee ~~xxxx~~ know of it; Now I do this to avoid making you costs, for if you come upon an order to show cause, that is if you put me to the trouble and expense of making the papers on which to get the order, and the expense of serving it, I shall surely try and get costs on the return of the order; trusting that you will comply with this request, I am very respectfully

Yours,

B. A. Barlow .
