

Furnishes Attractive Literary Features by Popular Writers for Simultaneous Publication in Leading American and English Newspapers.

| | |
|---------------------|----------------|
| NUMEROUS SKETCHES. | SERIALS. |
| LETTERS OF TRAVEL. | SHORT STORIES. |
| POPULAR SCIENCE. | POEMS. |
| FOREIGN LETTERS. | SYMPOSIUMS. |
| INDUSTRIAL MATTERS. | SERMONS. |
| FASHION LETTERS. | INTERVIEWS. |
| SPORTING LETTERS. | SOCIAL ESSAYS. |
| NEWSPAPER ARTICLES. | LITERARY NEWS. |

EDWARD A. OLDHAM,
MANAGER.

OFFICE OF
The National Press Alliance,

ROOM 12, WARNER BUILDING,
916 F STREET, NORTHWEST,

WASHINGTON, D. C.

March 13, 1891.

Hon. Albion Tourgee,

New York, N.Y.

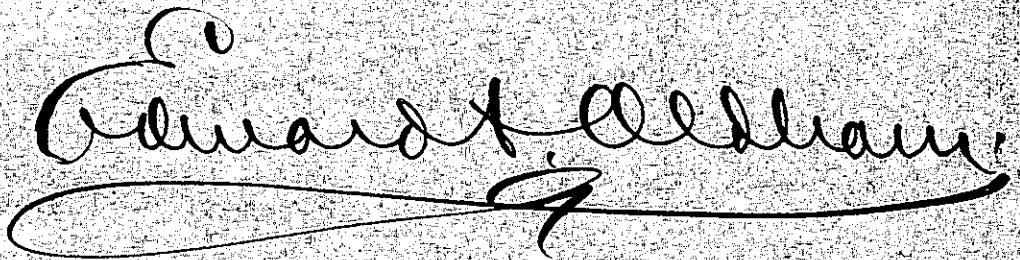

Esteemed Sir:-

Will you kindly contribute a few lines to the symposium "What is it we want in a novel?"-in which a number of the most prominent writers will participate

This array of opinions will appear in a large number of leading American newspapers.

Trusting the National Press Alliance may sometime have the opportunity of repaying you for your kindness in this matter, I am, inviting your early response,

Very truly yours,

Manager.

(Dictated.)

family of North Carolina

Representing in America, Mr. Jeremiah MacVeagh, the popular Irish journalist, whose work has elicited flattering comments from the late Cardinal Newman, and the Rt. Hon. William E. Gladstone, and whose "Irish Letters" are warmly commended by Justin McCarthy, Wm. O'Brien, John Dillon, Thos. Sexton, William Redmond, and other well known Irish and English publicists.