

HERALD OFFICE,

New York, U. S. A., April 15, 1891.

Dear Sir:

If you have not already done so, will you kindly join the Herald's great Symposium on "The Perfecting of Man" by answering in from twelve to two hundred words either of the following questions:

What are the best, or what are the most advanced forms of culture?

What qualities are necessary for the all-round development, or the higher development of the coming young man?

This is not an ordinary symposium. It is prepared by a committee in the cause of anthropological and ethical science.

The results will be published in a volume, of which you will be presented a copy.

Very sincerely yours,

Wallace Wood.

over

PARTIAL LIST OF THOSE WHO HAVE ALREADY CONTRIBUTED.

Lord Randolph Churchill,
Prof. Max Muller,
Archdeacon Farrar,
Sir John Lubbock,

Dr. Henry Maudsley,
Dr. Paul Topinard, Paris,
Prof. Lombroso, Turin,
Prof. W. Preyer, Berlin,
Prof. Harold Hoffding, Copenhagen,

Prof. Mark Baldwin, Toronto,

E. D. Cope,
Noah Porter,
James Russell Lowell,
Oliver Wendell Holmes,
Stanley Hall,

Prof. William James, of Harvard,

Edmond Gosse,
Grant Allen,
Chief Balfour,
Chauncy Depew,
James Parton,

John Addington Symonds,
Walt. Whitman,
J. S. Blackie,
Julian Hawthorne,
W. E. Norris.