of question
has been raised in our town, whether
the law referred to
on page 496. of "Bricks without straw" about selling cotton after
run-down, was really a law at
that time, and was

on the status of the state. Will you
be kind enough to answer these questions soon? Also whether you
lecture, and would
there be any probability of your coming to Sloan to lecture, what would be your fee? We are 43 miles south of Dry City, a small town, but a good deal of intelligence
in it, and I think

We could give you a good house. But whether we could afford it I don't know. Truly yours -
