Mr. Albion W. Tourgee,

My dear Sir;--

Are you at liberty to make an engagement to write a story for The Golden Rule to begin within a few weeks? If so could you send me an outline of any story that you may have in mind, and what the price for it will be? We cannot use installments of more than twenty five hundred or three thousand words in one paper, and I would like a story that would run for twenty weeks or so.

We published a serial of yours some time ago entitled "The Mortgage on the Hip-roof House" in the Golden Rule. Perhaps you have something else along the same line in mind.

An early answer will greatly oblige me, as we desire to make our announcements at once in regard to this matter.

Sincerely yours,

F. E. Clark.
