Dear Sir:-

I am most happy to class myself as one of your pupils.

Therefore I take the privilege of requesting you to look over the within paper, and pass your criticisms upon it.

Whatever is not wise and judicious to place before the public - please run a red line through it.

Whatever may or may not be advisable to state, please run a pencil line through.

If you think the attempt useless, please frankly say so.

I started to write a circular letter, as appears on page 14, but knowing how hard it will be to move colored people to action; also the indifference on part of the public generally, I decided it might be best to put in all my ammunition for a "broadsider" to fire the people to action, but this will cause a difficulty as to expense of printing etc which I may find trouble in meeting alone.

I have consulted many as to the wisdom of such a move, and all agree as to the necessity - so I have taken the first steps and submit the results to you for wisdom in its execution

I am aware that I am asking much of your time, but you are serving humanity well, and this matter is in line with that occupation.

Any suggestion will be gladly received whether favorable or otherwise.

Very Sincerely

J. T. Robinson
