Wm. W. Banes,

Baltimore, Md.

My Dear Doctor Garrison,

We have made an effort to some extent to publish the story of Wm. W. Bane's Conversion, as a serial and have utterly failed. We tried the "C. M. Garrison," "New England Anti-Slavery Examiner," and one other and in the issue of Friday evening the First three arrangements that were made covering the period of the next six months or so. Where we have been compelled reluctantly to admit that, ~~we~~ ~~are~~ ~~in~~ ~~the~~ ~~plan~~.

From what we have gathered by conversation with members of our Committee and from what occurred at the last meeting of the same, Dr. Rowland and I have come to the conclusion that it is utterly impracticable for us to attempt to get the approval of the Committee for a story, the way of which is not in our hands. I suppose the only way to be the better of exerting your influence over your church instead of Washington, but it would be an exertion of all my strength to do it. If you will do it, it would be considered an important favor of this meeting, to those who don't approve. Not that we would have to agree with it necessarily to the friends but we should have to say that we had it in hand, had given it consideration, and left it to your people. You see the situation for which we find ourselves and hence the shall have to leave the decision up to your judgment of the matter, to you. Personally I may not do it with very great regret as I should like nothing better for my son every good man you.

With very sincere regards, I remain

Very truly yours,

Dear Jones : do much
be troubled about any result. I am most glad to thank you for your kind
interest and feel fully assured abou from any delay or trouble about
the matter by a closer friendship with you.

It is, probably, all for the best. I am just embarked in
a new enterprise
and may conclude
to put Christ's福 and into it. Yours —

I do not blame
your committee
for their caution.
I should probably
feel the same way
in like case.
