

7514
SENATE CHAMBER,

WASHINGTON, D. C.,

April 23, 1895.

Dear Judge:

Your letter was sent to New Haven. It was probably forwarded thence to Hartford, which is my residence, although for the present I am staying here. Your paper being sent to New Haven was probably mislaid. I have written to the New Haven Postmaster for it, but you might perhaps send me another. They have a fashion of throwing away misdirected papers although they may sometimes be more interesting than a letter.

Yours truly,

(sm) J. H. Hawley

Hon. A. W. Tourgee,

Buffalo, N. Y.

I am right glad to hear your hail through the fog, and to know that you are on deck again
