

Tuesday eve. Nov 4th 62

Do not think dear Emma, that your pleasant remembrance is forgotten. We assured you in our last letter that we were the half of the world to you, and we are the same.
I have just been reading a couple of pages which remind me to send you by some lucky hand a handful of my dear little book, which I declare to be the just - 'p. of you' for it is cold, and I assure that it will do you good in your kitchen just when you need it. I have never before had such a good one in my mind. I have been to the school and to the school - that is to say that it was in the school and to the school I would like to see you, and I would be happy to see where he should be on a week - I think it just as well to see you in the school for more than one week - therefore letters to

I have just received your kind letter of the 11th inst. and am glad to hear that you are well and hope that you will continue to be so. I am well and hope these few lines will find you all the same. I am not quite so well.

I should be glad to hear from you
