Dr Sir

I had hoped to have seen you yesterday morn, but could not come to the office until the team had taken my sister to her school.

You know something concerning the condition of Rice's books. That the errors are almost innumerable.

Our today's Reporter Mr. Kelsey has made an explanation, which probably you will see under present circumstances it is impossible to make any rapid progress collecting a
I propose to do no more.

I will remain in the office as heretofore until I hear from you.

There has been enough paid in, had not Mr. Rice taken some himself while here, to partially compensate for labor, and probably there will be some more.

Please let me hear from you if convenient.

Yours Obt Servant

B. T. Lushington
