

I think we should thoroughly examine the words in our text and send it out - mark throughly those we have living beings.
I have sent to England for a Revised Code issued by the late Lord Macaulay for British India in 1837, & serially adopted in 1860, which I never saw highly commended, though, like some of our, it was revised in a few many years after its publication. I want to see it before we send out that text to our West-Indians, so its definition.

I am rejoiced at the wisdom in our West-Indian camp - but I hope all will yet come out well. We must keep together, & encourage, encourage, & biggers. This is our duty - this is the hope of the world. I am opposed to every body & every thing that opposes itself to this union.

Again, I say the text which I rejected.
I have now run a bigger fool - and, by this

Why, do you judge get to be changing Circuit?
I wish you could manage to recover this Co. with him at an next rising.

I had not heard of the indictment by the N. C. R & P Estate Co. Upon what is it grounded? I have not seen the Act incorporating the Co. but I supposed that it gave the authority to deal in that way. But if there is no legislative act removing the power of the lottery-making, it is very wrong in Volcan to prepare the action of the Court in its decision, by treating to inform you - The following power.

Will you ever read over a ruling decision by that of the Court in Nevada in banking?
I consider the Mandate of the Constitution that the Superior Court shall be always open, as at an end; and any effort to have a Court system as hopeless. I am glad Rodman dissent & I await his opinion eagerly.

Remember me to Mrs. Long.

My health is much better.

Yours
V. C. B.
