

I have your letter of yesterday, —

I see no reason <sup>to</sup> object for and am not ~~induced~~ <sup>induced</sup> the carefully worded and phrased ~~sent~~ pages, which precede the last paragraph, —

I trust Mr Howard's "conscience" for ~~keeping~~ <sup>forwarding</sup> my chair, may be very soon as the iron or lead rivet
<sup>member</sup> of ~~our~~ family has daily need of it

Sincerely yours

The "uncomfortable memory" which you used to discuss in "ye olden time" seems really one of possessing a "really"
to have made you "uncomfortable"
this time
