

Harris & Shafer Company
Jewelers
1113 Pennsylvania Avenue

Washington, D. C. May 29, 1907. 190

Mrs. E. K. Tourgee,
2015 Kalarama Avenue,
C i t y.

Dear Madam:

In reply to your letter of May 28th would say, after consulting our Mr. Smith, who does the clock work, he informs us that he was sent for to see your dining room clock which did not run. This clock had been moved, and of course had gotten out of beat. The other clock which he repaired was a hanging one.

He called to see them 7 or 8 times, and we would respectfully state that in as much as we gave the repaired clocks attention for over a year without any extra charge, we did not think it just that after a year expired, and something unusual had happened to the clock, that we should be expected to attend this without further cost.

We trust that you will see it in this light.

Dic. S. A.D.

Yours respectfully,

Harris & Shafer Co.

*Ans.
May 30/07*