Mayville, N. Y. October 24th, 1907.

Messrs Jennings & Graham,
Cincinnati, Ohio.

Gentlemen:

Yours of the 17th was duly received.

I should be glad to possess the plates of "Letters to a King", but your price is much greater than any of the others which I have bought of my husband's books, and I am not in a situation to pay that for them, especially as you say the book has practically no sale. I do not see then that these plates are worth anything to you beyond what you would receive for them melted up. As said before I will consent to receive the royalty named, viz, 5% for those already printed, but for a new edition, I think the contract must stand.

I am, gentlemen,

Very truly yours,

E. K. J.
