Dear Madam:

It is more than a year since we have had copies of the "Fool's Errand" and "Bricks Without Straw", that it is hardly possible for us to make an accurate estimate of the number we could use in a year's time, but it seems likely that we would be able to dispose of about one hundred each. We should not care to invest in these books, but would take them on consignment, making you a quarterly settlement for sales. We have made note of the fact that you have copies of "Button's Inn" for sale and should we get orders for this title, we will write you instead of reporting "out of print". The demand for this book is so slight that we are not warranted in putting it in stock.

Very truly yours,
