Mrs A.W. Souger

Dear friend -

This summer since the death of my husband I have spent many hours going over "notebooks" of his college and army life. In both I find frequent mentions of the friendship existing between Souger and himself.
In a little Scotch poem, June 17, 1860 after a little confidence, very like the confidences of girls - are these lines -
"And brethren, may the lass thro' them,

Be spritely, dounce and fair;
As looving, and as true as — mine
— I canna wish ye mair. —

And it's all very sweet to read so many years afterward - sweet to me and I trust it will be to you - so I share the pleasure -

Very truly
