Dear Madam:-

Your letter received yesterday. Both the bookkeeper and I understood the picture was to cost but five dollars for which we were to give you credit. When you came with the pictures you had two, one for ten dollars and one for five. We understood the one we took was five.

As for my saying that you had more credit I meant you could have more flowers and I would take another picture.

Am sorry if a mistake was made but that is the way I understood the whole thing. Hoping you will recall this Sincerely
Rachel W. Rebstock.
