Apr. 5, 1911.

Dear Madam:

We have received your request and gladly send you the literature desired.

To gain a true estimate of its value, please read all carefully, and note the really remarkable letters from physicians.

Sanatogen is the only food tonic advertised to the public that has the unqualified approbation of the medical profession the world over, which means that Sanatogen merits your absolute confidence.

The question will naturally arise in your mind, "Is Sanatogen at all likely to help me?" Note that Sanatogen can never harm, and just to the extent that the nervous system and the body need strengthening, to that extent will the revitalizing power of Sanatogen make itself felt. Its mission is particularly to restore to the nerves their strength, endurance and resistive force, to regenerate the vital functions of digestion, nutrition and assimilation.

In fulfilling its mission Sanatogen begins at the very beginning, it builds up what has been torn down. It re-creates body and nerve tissues, enriches the blood, and, to quote Lady Henry Somerset: "It makes the human machinery fit for fulfilling its function in the most perfect manner".

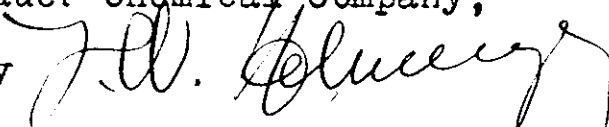

If the literature we have sent you does not fully cover the points about which you wish to know, write us and your question will be cheerfully answered.

If your druggist has not yet placed Sanatogen in his stock or is unable to procure it within 24 hours (which is most unlikely), kindly fill in the enclosed order slip and return to us with remittance. We will fill it immediately and send you Sanatogen postpaid.

Yours very truly,

Bauer Chemical Company,

By
