

Whereas, upon a previous occasion the judge of the said district, did adjourn the Fall Term of the Superior Court of his own motion until the second week in order that "Attorneys, Clerks, and Citizens of the County Generally" might attend the State Fair, and

whereas - In consequence of said adjournment, the public press and citizens of said county upon the stump did abuse and denounce the said judge for ~~said act~~ thus consulting the convenience of citizens of said County - and

whereas - The citizens of said county have now largely petitioned the said judge to adjourn the time of holding the said Term until the second week, for the very reason which had previously moved and induced ^{him} ~~the Court~~ so to do -

Now therefore, because the Court regards the interest and convenience of those citizens who have the spirit and enterprise to promote and encourage those institutions which are and industries on which the prosperity of the State so largely depends, above the clamors of chronic and malicious croakers -