

"The Constitution of this State provides that this state shall ever remain a member of the American Union; that the people thereof are a part of the American nation; That there is no right on the part of this State to secede, and that all attempts, from whatever source, or upon whatever pretext, to dissolve said Union or to annul said nation ought to be resisted with the whole power of the State."

Hanniston of North Carolina says

"The sword has not settled the question"

A. H. Stephens of Georgia says rejects the "New Departure" of Vallandigham because it yields the dogma of State Rights -

Toombs of Georgia says that "we do not accept the situation but will fight the nation again as soon as they are <sup>we</sup> can get ready and I think we can get ready much sooner than is generally supposed" And he adds that three fourths of the Southern whites agree with him -
