[Handwritten text on page 97, starting with a large initial 'P' and 'your statement'. The text discusses a dispute involving Judge Dwyer and a statement made by 'Dwyer'.

your statement that Judge Dwyer lied about Dwyer's offer to introduce your letters (as his statement that you offered to carry his bundles), it will take more than your statement to establish it.
 Dwyer certainly did make that statement & offered to introduce your own letters to prove it, when Judge Dwyer prevented it, as will not wish to pay into any such communication. We have not intended to manifest any inclination to quarrel with you on the contrary, we have done the very best we could for you & have taken more pains to fill orders which we make nothing but loss on - which you ask - than we could ever have done for another. This is the fact, we have not been able to do all that is expected of us & of your order taking into account your numerous small orders
