My Good Friend,

Your book was received, and read by several friends as well as by myself. Tho' I read it but a few days ago my time until then having been fully taken up by the sad events which befell us

I have heard but one comment a "Lainette" a hearty praise of its interest (in your opinion those who understand the South) of its effective and faithful portraiture of what has been (and is) the matter my quite proud of my acquaintance with the author.

I have seen to find opportunity to write you more at length but must content myself now with thanking you and kindly remembering me.

With regards to the wife I am a
Yours
R. M. Tuttle.
