From an examination of a portion of Mr. S. S. Cox's book, entitled "Three Decades," I deem myself able conscientiously to commend it to my fellow-citizens.

It deals with great historic epochs; and the experience and ability of the author, cannot fail it seems to me, to make this volume a pleasing source of very valuable information.

GROVER CLEVELAND.

WASHINGTON, 24 March, '85.

MY DEAR MR. COX: I have read the twelfth chapter of your forthcoming book with great pleasure, and I thank you sincerely for sending it to me. It is written in clear graphic style and presents with fresh interest the details of the Trent affair. Your personal incidents and anecdotes in connection with that grave conflict of opinion and action are extremely entertaining.

I wish, and with the utmost confidence predict, a great success as the reward of your literary labor. With sincere regard. Your friend,

JAMES G. BLAINE.

HON. S. S. COX.

NEW YORK.

GENTLEMEN: I have only had time to read a small portion of the book, "Three Decades of Federal Legislation," of which my friend Mr. Cox is the author; but what I have read is as interesting as a romance, and is characterized by the charming combination of wit and wisdom which adorn all the literary work of Mr. Cox. It seems to be written in a spirit of charity to all men, and while it deals with questions still very exciting, I think that every reader will recognize that the author has intended to do ample justice to the leading men of both parties, and the important measures with which they have had to deal. I predict for the work a very great success. Yours sincerely,

ABRAM S. HEWITT.

DEAR SIR: Accept my thanks for the specimen pages of Mr. Cox's book, and please put my name on the list of subscribers.

The political associations of Mr. Cox will perhaps give a coloring to the work, but I am confident it will be written in excellent temper—that it will be valuable and trustworthy in matter, and scholarly and entertaining in style. Sincerely,

R. B. HAYES.

MR. J. H. JEWETT, ETC., ETC.

Dear Sir—

I have in view a book which I believe you could acceptably write and if you have any time at your disposal between now and May 1st I should be pleased to correspond with you confidentially in relation to it.

The book should contain about the same amount of matter as one volume of "Gen. Grant's Memoirs," and will not require but little research to make perfect.

Respt. Yours,

J. H. Jewett.
