

St. Louis Dec 21 1887

Dear Mrs. Loring

I am conscious that I have neglected you and Judge S. for some time in the latter line, (in another respect) and for that reason I shall commence accounts, although I am out of the reach of letter paper.

I have all this time been keeping my eye on Zion and could I see you and the Judge I could tell you much to gladden your hearts, although I have not time to write it.

I notice by a St. Louis Globe Democrat that one from Santa Fe and Mexico (where my former-in-law Captain Pullman is Stationer) writes Mrs. Pullman is this winter overiting, that Judge S. is returning in the West,

I will send you the paper in the morning but will ask you to re-mail it to me as I wish it for future reference - You will see that the sending of it to me calls my attention to this notice.

I tell you the work is all right and in hand, but Judge S. & I must wait as soon as possible after the press,

Farewellly S. & J. Loring
