Thursday A.M.

My dear wife:

I had quite forgotten that the Bylander must go off today until late last night Willie called it to my attention. I was as surprised as if I had not been doing the thing weekly for so many months - or more properly years. I had not a thing ready and do not know even yet what I shall say.

It is snowing now and there is already a pretty good blanket on the ground - the result of two days of rather stormy weather - but it looks now as if we should get a good deal more. His is up and about having announced this morning her recovery complete. Your mother seems a little mad that she got well so soon. We are all stirred up because no one has heard from Angie in so long a time. Do you know is she sick.

Burnes & Hanger sent a bill and a draft for $10-. I have written them that the bill has been sent to you; but guess I will send a check all the same. I sent father $10 - more: paid Brannon $20; Millis $15 and Smith (for the day) $5.00. That is my report.

The "Evolution" came yesterday. It is very nice: think you. I think you had better go to the inaugural, if you can get a place to stay. Why not write to Father

Yours truly
Albin
