

Weymouth N.Y.

April 15, 1889.

My dear wife: I have done it.

By this mail I send you the whole ms -

- X - A legal Impressionist
- XI - A Discoloring brain
- XII - The long vacation.

The letter I have not touched, as I don't want to write the "cracker" till I can see the whole together. It will not be more than a page though.

XI - is fixed over all right on us nearly as us I can do in ms.

X - is the corrected ms, which you will immediately take to Hippienatt's.

I intimated in my letter that you wanted the cash for them all at once and that is what you had better strike for. That was the contract and has been repeated when I was asked to send it all in. You will get it soon enough for your purposes & think -

Ask them about books and if you sign a receipt be sure it is "for serial use only" - You know how slippery they are.

Yours kindly and almost too tired to write.

Albion
