My dear Wife:

I leave at 7 in the morning and as Sis is going to write you I will put this in her letter being sealed my own. Perhaps you had better go and see the "Press" people. It is no good to write to each. If they care for it I can put it under some quaint head and do them, say two columns a week for $25. I don't think you will do anything with them, however, and if it would hurt your feelings, don't risk them. Of course, as I have to give up the Week Cook Trip I can do something more every week and would like to do a miscellany with very little politics in it. Now and then a thing might strike me which I would like to hit; but I would especially like to write in regard to current literature - not always, nor often reviews but discussions of tendencies &c. There is need for some one to do that sort of thing fearlessly and it would make an attractive feature. Love to both.

Good night.

Albin.

I don't know what to start to do next.

I talked with Joe about the Maine matter but do not see any way to bring such a thing about -
