

The Advance.

H. B. HARRISON, GENERAL MANAGER.

EDITORIAL STAFF:

EDMON GILBERT. CHARLES F. THING.
J. A. ADAMS.

155 La Salle Street.

Chicago, May 25 1889.

A. W. Causse

Dear Sir,

I am very glad to get your reply which we will gladly print in the Advance, but permit me to say what you doubtless know well enough, that it evades the real cause of complaint, which can not be disposed of by this review of the principles discussed. There is a natural & legitimate desire aroused to know more of the characters created. Perhaps the public ought to have thought more of the principles discussed, & cared nothing for the persons, but they did not & will not look at it that way. I am glad to know your synopsis will soon be to hand. I am almost sorry the name is so nearly like our present story, 'Wakama', though it is no serious objection. I have no one yet to consult with me. I am

The Advance.

H. S. HARRISON, GENERAL MANAGER.

EDITORIAL STAFF:

SIMON GILBERT. CHARLES F. THWING.
J. A. ADAMS.

155 La Salle Street.

Chicago, 1889.

took it under advisement & has since reported that if they could see it before hand they think they would like it, but they will not take any story not read before.
If you care to see them or let them know more of your story to get it in there,
I will wait before trying elsewhere
Yours truly
H. S. Harrison.

I take it the privilege of an eastern publication simultaneous with ours, does not hinder it being in Chicago or St. Louis or Cincinnati instead of farther East, if we are willing to have it nearer to us.
Of course I prefer the farther East, but if failed there & could here I see no harm to your interests there by.