W. W. Gist,
Pastor Cong'l Church.

Marion, Iowa, June 1, 1889

My dear Judge:

I am glad you are still among the living. I will be pleased to get the promised letter when your time will permit.

If I had my rough notes, I would put them in better shape for you to criticise when you get the time.

I wish you success in your "maneuvering for position" whatever that ambiguous expression may mean.

I enjoyed your last letter to the "Inter-Ocean". You have considerable fun at Deben's expense. Still he might have employed me legitimately in carrying on research for him.

Some of the incidents
you give in that letter must be autobiographical.

My work goes along
as usual.

Yours very truly,

W. W. Gist
