

3956

THE CONGREGATIONALIST.

W. L. Greene & Co. Proprietors.

Henry M. Dexter, D.D., Editor in Chief.

C. A. Richardson, Managing Editor.

William F. Whittemore, Publisher.

1 Somerset Street, Boston.

Aug. 2, 89

Judge Tourgee;

Dear Sir;

This is the first intimation we have had that your statements have been contradicted, and we do not apprehend that one of a thousand among our readers has seen any reference to the Atlanta Constitution's article.

Therefore we feel unable to give place to the enclosed. The mischief has been done, if anywhere, among the readers of the Constitution and they are the ones, as it seems to us, who ought to see what you say herein. If you are to say anything in the Congregationalist in reply to the Southern paper's article it seems to us that it should be in just a short article, claiming that in the main facts you were right while you have may have been mistaken in one or two minor matters.

Yours Respectfully, C. A. Richardson