Dear Judge—

I looked for the poem
you spoke of at once
after getting back from Mayville last week. I did not find it on first search and wrote my brother Harry to tell you so, adding that I hoped to come across it on further looking over the files. I have not, however. I have looked through everything from the first of June to the first of September without finding anything which resembled the description you gave. I hope you will find or have found the clipping which you made.

With kindest regards to all, Very sincerely
E. H. Brush.
