

My dear Skinner: After you left today, looking at the memoranda I had taken about the notes, &c., it occurred to me, that at our last table ~~the~~ just before you went West, the arrangement was that the credit on the mortgage was to be $1,000, and the $130. note ^{of May 1888} was to be taken up with the balance.
That, I think, you will find was the basis of the statement you then made out and I find I so wrote Mrs. J. — Look at your memoranda of that time and see if it is not so.

If that were done, I would at least take up the $75 ~~note~~ note out of the proceeds of the new notes, but do not see how I could master the balance on the $250. one and have any thing left. You see I have already the in-summer overdraft to meet and this with the $75 note will be about all I could manage now,

Yours -
