New York, 2. 3. 90.

Dear Cousin,

I have your letter of 30th to Kate, which I am glad I happened to open. I dont often open her letters for the reason as I tell her that they never have anything in them worth reading. I did not take the letter home and for the present at least shall say nothing to her of its contents.

To say that I am sorry to hear that the Judge has been annoyed and so upset on account of his act of kindness to me does not express my feeling and if I can do anything in the matter I shall be only too glad to act as best I can. I thought of telegraphing to you but could not well say what I wanted, but I wish you would let me know at once who it is that is troubling you and the Judge, that is, what notes they are on which the Judgments are held, and if possible who the N. Y. attorneys are. It may be that I can by talking with them explain the situation, show them that they are simply wasting their time bothering one who simply out of pure kindness did what he could for me, and I hope that I can persuade them to stop. So far as paying them anything is concerned it is perhaps the worst thing that could be done, for they could then simply pursue the same tactics to get more. Besides that I am in about the same position as you, nothing with which to pay. The business here is really in a good condition, and last year for the first time a little was made but it is scattered around in accounts and I really do not know where I could go today and get as little as 100$ even if that amount would stop the annoyance. I received your letter saty p. m. just as I was starting home, and I could not keep my mind off it all day yesty, and it pains me to know that for such a clear act of pure kindness the Judge and you are so annoyed.

I have been hauled up for examination in supplementary proceedings I forget how many times, and had the good fortune on one occasion to come before a respectable honorable attorrey, and since tha that time, when any of them propose going through the circus again I ask them as a matter of good to themselves as well as humanity to me to go and see this party, and they lately seem to have got the notion that they simply wasted their time by going on with the examination.

Perhaps it may be as well to wire me simply the name of the party in whose favor the note or notes on which the judgments are obtained are made, and if you can do so the name of the N. Y. attorney and I will do all that I can.

It is too bad that such a noble man should be so bothered, and I am sorry very sorry on your acct. to.

Your afft. coz,

Ed. H. Nixon
