My dear Husband, May 17 1890

I was with enciousness & I this morning I don't like to hear you be awake and afraid you don't take your pills regular and if you take the one only, perhaps you better go back to the two. I think you are missing me more than you tell me. It is too bad that we not two of me, as neither of my cores would be without my presence. I did fade, - when I made the remark to her.
"How mamma, that would make no difference - for each of us would see be one each with both of you." - Anyway, darling,

I will come home to you just when you want. —

Best advice, is to have a different experience to - don't go young to Atlantic City as we intended, as we have just returned from the dental success, where she had the 4 wisdom teeth extracted! Mr.
Hirke in examining her mouth the other day decided that that was the position to be done. There was no room in her jaw for them; they were cutting into her cheek and pushing her teeth into a cavity of bone.
She took one - and got along nicely, - I think I have the second one, the same right down over the old pretty faint line we saw the other day.
I had some in did skin
some in both of my canines, but not the next best thing a little of Pond's Extract, and great impression on thoughtful minds, is not to be doubted.

I had a note from Mr. Kelley this morning, in which he said the same things were the matter of the day in America and that he was glad to see you at the meeting, the work you were doing, that

You were looking for the feeling of the people, gratifying me and if it were only money, I would like to make myself a millionaire - or so a position that will give you ease and comfort. I shall be content, and if I am well.

I enclose the $50, - and will see about the balance when I go down to New York - I will try to see you in New York - I enclose a note from the other side of the world trying to get along without me to travel. I will send you

Yours truly
