Belleville, Aug. 8th, 1890.

My dear Judge:

Yr. letter came duly to hand. The fact is, simply, that while I considered you in the matter of the Centipede I sent you, I was more considerate of myself. —

I will send you, soon, a picture of the Essex machines as designed for the market. It is a small affair - weighing about six-and-a-half-pounds, with 27 keys; it does excellent work, and will do, in the hands of an expert, 85 or 90 per cent. of the work of the Remington, but is the hands of the ordinary operator - yourself or myself, for instance - is just as desirable a machine as any on the market; and it can be sold for 25 dollars, and yet leave a large margin for profit: its plan being one of great simplicity. It will be very durable also.

I hope you are very well, and that all belonging to you are.

Most truly yours,

J. W. Schuckel

Beekville is about 12 miles out of New York: say 35 minutes by local train. If you are at any times in that city advise me, and I will call on you and will show you the Essex - after 20 days

- in all its glories!

J.
