present of the South, on the discussion of the Negro Problem, especially so because of the prominence of R. D. M.

It was very interesting, in fact, you were speaking on the same point then, as I did on the 15th, and it was a sharp thing I must admit in fact, you were not subject, and for me, I must admit, you were just disposed to reply, your sharpness is seen in the many places which have been taken down.

For your own sake, the day is not to be spent so long, I am an old man, and I can't be public, and also a very dull person.

Yours very respectfully,
The value of people without reform is less than the reform itself.
