My Dear Sir:-

In yours of the 9th inst., you say, "I will send you six or eight hundred words on the 11th or 12th if you still wish. If that will be too late for this issue, please wire me." I understood from the above that I was only to wire you in case your matter would be too late, consequently I have been looking every mail for your favor. I write you because I don't want to seem discourteous in the matter by not answering your note at once, but I read it that silence on my part would bring your matter, while if I did not want it for this issue I was to wire you. I am hoping yet to see it every day, for although we have gone to press with one form, it will be the latter part of the week before I can get the last form ready so there will be time for you to still send what you have ready upon receipt of this. If you have nothing ready let it go over till next month, when I shall hope to have something more elaborate.

Very truly yours,

F. B. Curtis
