

Minneapolis, Minn. May 18th, 1892.

My dear Comrade:--

It will be a great pleasure to give you room, hard tack and coffee at our house, during the Convention season. Let me know train, road, and date of arrival and I will meet you at depot, but in case of anything to prevent this, drive direct to #148 Highland Avenue. Mrs. or Miss. Tourgee, or both, will be welcome too.

I hope Capt. Braden will also be with us, but am not certain yet.

No apologies are necessary. Every house in Minneapolis will be open if necessary to take care of people who come to the Convention, and I assure you there are thousands besides ourselves, who would be very glad to entertain Judge Tourgee.

To Judge A. W. Tourgee,

Very truly yours,

Mayville, N.Y.

A. W. Tourgee
