My dear wife:

I had a good night's sleep and leave here at 12.03. I shall take a coupe and drive about town from 11 to 12 — must get some thing and see the town. You sent me off with only two extra collars which is a shock allowance for such a long trip. Tried to find Prof Jones last night but he is not in the directory, at least I could not find him. The day is colder than the last two which have been terribly hot. And Carter Harrison won in Chicago! That settles the Fair. Thugs, thieves, robbers, gamblers, prostitutes! One will need a gatling gun and a suit of armor

who ventures into the reeking den!

I was afraid of that when Allerton was put up. He does not seem to have the hold which Page has on the popular mind. Well, it none of our business is it?

Yours
