Hon Albion W. Tourgee,
Mayville, N. Y.

Dear Sir:-- On opening of correspondence between us I promised myself much pleasure in its pursuit, providing always you should prove patient, but as you may have inferred from my letters from time to time, I had been and was being overworked-- a matter not entirely new to me, but recuperation from which failed to come as promptly as when younger. In short I have been obliged to put away everything in the way of physical or mental labor that could be avoided. I am not without expectations but I shall find myself in more satisfactory shape, though the change may come slow.

I received some weeks ago a copy of your lecturing circular containing mention of your various pursuits through life, very interesting to me, though but glanced at at the moment of opening, busy with other matters and handed it around in the office for general inspection expecting to see it again, but when called for two or three days later it was not to be found. If you have another please enclose it to me, and in fact I would like a list of your publications; I presume I have most of them but not all and would like to see such as I have not seen.

I am expecting to go off for the Summer to our country home at Port Kent, Essex Co., N. Y., on the west bank of Lake Champlain directly opposite Burlington, Vt., with my family next week, and find opportunity to listen to such of your works as I have not seen and may be able to lay my hand on.

I hope your pets in the way of horse flesh continue to give you and yours pleasure, also that it may be well with you all. Should it be in your way to visit Northern New York, we will be glad to have a visit from yourself and family, and by giving us notice of your coming will meet you at train or boat.

Yours truly,

C. W. Kellogg,

Dictated,
